Did you ever think how much music influences our lives? Can you go one day without hearing a song? We have radio stations, music channels on TV, music classes in our schools, and we even listen to music at work – music can be found just about anywhere and all over the world. Music is a universal language that anyone can understand. Music also has a big influence in our relationships because we can express our feelings with it and it can even change how we feel toward someone.

God designed us to sing and make music along with designing us to have a relationship with His Son, Jesus. Singing to Jesus should then be a natural response in expressing your love for Him. Since He is the one who created you, then He is the only one who knows how to truly satisfy your soul. Singing songs of +praise and +thanksgiving to Jesus deepens your love for Him. The more you sing to Him - morning and night, the more your connection with Him grows because He will be constantly on your mind.

Lev 22:29

Psa 50:14

You show God that you love Him with all your soul when you freely offer thanks and praise to Him. It is not an expression of love when it is a forced response. The choice to love Him is your own and because you have made that choice, you should put your all into expressing your love to Him, sacrificing your time and your will. As you do this, it will change you from the inside out, bringing joy and gladness to your soul. You will be a happier person when you sing to Jesus!
